

An aerial photograph showing a construction site. In the center, a small cluster of rectangular tents is situated on a cleared area. To the left, there is a large, irregularly shaped area covered in a light-colored material, possibly sand or gravel, with some tracks. The surrounding area is a mix of green grass, trees, and a road. On the right side, there are several long, parallel tracks or paths. The overall scene is a mix of natural and man-made elements.
